A BARK CHURCH.—For $2.75 we will send the Lexington Journal, and the Cincinnati Weekly Commercial, a large eight-page newspaper, for one year and allow the subscriber to select either of the following books: "The Bible," "The last days of Pompeii," "John Halifax Gentleman," "The Posthumous Papers of Pickwick Club," "The History of Crime," "The Right Honourable Benj. Disraeli, Earl of Beaconsfield," "Edith," "Journal of the Plague in London," "Poems of Wordsworth," "A History of our own times." These books are really good, and will be delivered free of postage. We have arrangements with all the magazines and other periodicals by which we can furnish them at very reduced rates, when taken with the Lexington Journal.

FRANK LEMLEY'S SUNDAY MAGAZINE.—The March number is promptly on its way, taking precedence of all other contemporaries. It is, in every respect, a most admirable one; a religious, pure and moral tone pervades its pages, and still they abound with articles which appeal to all tastes and all classes, and from the pen of which the reader cannot fail to derive both entertainment and education. There are so many good things that it is difficult to select the most notable features. The opening article, by Hart Lytton, entitled "The Burden of the Modern Class," is a very pleasing narrative of the lady's experience in the Mission. The article, by Rev. Lyman Abbott, is replete with the stirring incidents resulting in the organization of the Puritan party under Cromwell. Those who desire a closer view of the "Puritans" by Alfred H. Greeney, are concluded in this number with a most interesting paper on "The Puritans of the Highlands," in France under Louis XIV. The two very interesting serials, "Be He, the Nihilist's Daughter," and "Little Hinges" are continued, and there are several short stories by popular writers. The subject of "The Children of the Bible," is "Isaac, the Child of Promise." An elaborate article on the late Frank Leslie, by the editor (with illustrations), is a beautiful tribute to the artistic and personal merit of the deceased. There are poems of great excellence, sketches, essays, adventures, etc., and a musical composition, "I Hope a Christian Hope," words and music written for this magazine by Augusta Browne Garrett. One hundred and twenty-eight quarto pages and 100 illustrations, the price of a single copy 25 cents, or $3 per annum, postpaid. Address, Frank Leslie's Publishing House, 55, 56 and 57 Park Place, New York.
